FORK'S HOTEL,
GEORGE W. MAUGER, Proprietor.
The above well-known hotel has recently undergone radical changes in its internal arrangements, and its proprietor announces to his former custom and the travelling public that his accomodations for the comfort of his guests are second to none in the country. His table will always be found supplied, not only with substantial food, but with all the delicacies of the season. His wines and liquors (except that popular beverage known as "McHenry"), purchased direct from the importing houses, are entirely pure, and free from all poisonous drugs. He is thankful for a liberal patronage in the past, and will continue to deserve it in the future. GEORGE W. MAUGER.

Original Poetry.

By the Sea.

BY MARIAN ROSS.*

The sky, with storm-clouds lowers dark and grand,
Alone, I wander by the ocean strand,
And gaze far out at sea,
Far out, where cloud and billow seem to meet.
While restless wavelets, dashing at my feet,
Bring murmurs back to me;
Bring to me low-toned murmurs from the sounding sea.

Bring far off echoes, whisperings sweet and low,
That, with the crested wavelets come and go,
Like voices of the night.
The seabird, circling swoops along the strand,
I stoop to gather pebbles in my hand,
Then watch his lagging flight,
Till in the distance, blue and dim he leaves my sight.

Anon his cry is backward borne to me
Above the voices of the surging sea,
The cruel, treacherous sea,
That holds my dead—that holds my buried love.
Tell me ye watchers of the night above,
When will the deep, deep sea,
Give back, from its dark depths, my dead to me?

The breezes from the main blow chill and bleak,
The tide-waves dash the spray against my cheek,
And night-damps, in my hair
Are gathering, while the storm comes on apace
Farewell O, Sea! beneath thy treacherous face
My love lies coldly there.
Ye restless waves adieu! Farewell unfathomable space.

Touch not the Siren Cup.

A Temperance Song.

BY J. T. YARRINGTON.

Touch not the siren cup of death,
'Tis hell that lurks within;
'Twill give to none good health or breath,
But trouble, woe and sin.

We see the demon's awful sway,
His power upon the earth;
We realize each passing day,
How great this moral dearth.

Drink will the human judgment blind,
Destroy our powers as well;
Corrupt the ways of all mankind,
Dispatch the soul to hell.

It is wretchedness none can portray,
The curse in part is known—
Who can this vice subdue, allay,
And give us back the throne?

* * * * * * * * * * * *

List to the voice of mirth,
Echoing from the bowers,
Of the Bacchic sons of earth,
In their unhallow'd hours.

Do you not madness call,
That drunken state of mind,
Brought on by alcohol,
Though 'tis the "best" you find?

"Madness!"—Yes, worse by far:
It brings the erring soul
Of man chargeable at the Judgment bar,
God's wrath on it to roll!

Deluded men! oh, hapless slaves!—
How long will you thus tread
Your silent way to open graves,
Eternal city of the dead!

Water down the mountains,
In rural music ran,
Coursing nature's fountains
To lave the lips of man.

With this pure crystal drink,
None need complain of thirst,
Or fall from lofty station's brink
To realms of these accurs'd!

Miscellaneous.

THE REGISTRY LAW.

Read and File Away for Future Reference.

To the Voters of Luzerne County.

For the purpose of showing you what you will have to do this fall in order to vote, we have had the following exposition of the new election law, (or as it is called the Registry Law,) prepared for your use. We call the special attention of naturalized voters to the provisions concerning them. They are picked out to be specially worried before they can vote and finally, when they are allowed to be marked on the back, like a store due bill, every time it is traded on, with the word "voted" and the date. The same party that passed this law, passed one similar last year, (1866) which the Supreme Court declared unconstitutional. The law is in spirit unconstitutional no doubt, too, inasmuch as it necessarily obstructs the freedom of voting and worries the voter in yielding up his franchise, particularly in this county, where a separate ticket for every candidate for all the township, county and State officers must now be voted. Will it prevent and obstruct the exercise of the right of suffrage guaranteed by our constitution? But read the exposition of the law for yourselves:

I. On the first Monday of June the assessors are to begin a revision of the transcripts of names furnished them by the county commissioners. This duty consists of the several particulars following:

1. Strike out the name of every person whom the assessor knows, personally or by reliable information, to have died, or removed from the district since the last previous assessment.

2. Add the name of any qualified voter whom the assessor shall know personally or by reliable information, to have removed into the district since the last previous assessment.

3. Add the names of all persons who shall claim to be qualified voters in your district; assess them with a tax, and ascertain by inquiry upon what ground the person so assessed claims to be a voter. This duty involves no discretion upon the part of the assessor. He is not to decide upon the claimant's right to vote, but only to report his name and the grounds of his claim.

4. The assessor is next to visit every dwelling-house in his district, and make careful inquiry if any person whose name is on his list has died, or removed from the district, and, if so, to take his name from the list; or whether any qualified voter resides therein whose name is not on his list, and, if so, to add the same thereto, and assess him with a tax. In this instance the assessor is to judge of the claimant's right to vote, for he is only to add "qualified voters," whom he discovers by visiting each dwelling.

5. Upon the completion of this work the assessor is to make out a list, in alphabetical order, of the white freemen above twenty-one years of age claiming to be qualified voters in the ward, borough, or district of which he is assessor, and opposite each of said names state the following particulars:

a. Housekeeper or not a housekeeper.

b. If a housekeeper, the number of his residence, with the street, alley, lane or court, if in a town where houses are numbered; if not, then the street, alley, lane or court on which the house fronts.

c. The occupation of the person, and, where he is not a housekeeper, the occupation, place of boarding, and with whom, and, if working for another, the name of the employer.

d. Opposite each name write the word "voter."

e. If the person claims the right to vote by reason of naturalization, he must exhibit his certificate to the assessor, unless he has been for five consecutive years next preceding a voter in said district, and in all cases where the person has been naturalized his name shall be marked with the letter "N.;" where he has merely declared his intention to become a citizen his name is to be marked "D. I.;" where the claim is to vote between the ages of twenty-one and twenty-two, the word "age" is to be added to his name, and if he has removed into the district since the last general election the letter "R." is to be placed opposite his name.

f. A separate list of all new assessments, and the amounts assessed upon each person, is to be immediately furnished to the county commissioners, together with the general list revised and corrected, as aforesaid.

g. On receiving back from the county commissioners duplicate copies of said list, with the observations and explanations noted as aforesaid, the assessor, prior to the first day of August, is to place one copy on the door, or other conspicuous part of the house where the election is required by law to be held, and to retain the other in his possession, for the inspection, free of charge, of any resident of the district.

h. The assessor is to add, from time to time, to his list the names of any one claiming the right to vote, mark opposite the name the letters "C.V.," assess a tax and note as in other cases, his occupation, residence, whether a housekeeper or a boarder, and with whom he boards, and whether naturalized, or designing to be, marking in all such cases the letter "N," or "D. I.," opposite his name. If the person claiming to be assessed be naturalized, he must exhibit his certificate to the assessor, if he designs to be naturalized before the next election, he must exhibit his certificate of declaration.

i. In all cases where any ward, borough, township, or election district is divided into two or more precincts, the assessor shall note in all his assessments, the precinct in which each elector resides, and make a separate return for each precinct to the county commissioners, and when he receives back the duplicate copies, one of them is to be put up on the election house of the precinct.

j. On the tenth day preceding the second Tuesday of October, the assessor shall "on the Monday immediately following," return to the county commissioners the names of all persons assessed by him since his former return, noting the observations and explanations before specified, and it shall not be lawful for any assessor to assess any tax within ten days next preceding the second Tuesday of October.

k. Assessors have power to administer oaths, and are to be paid by the county commissioners for the time necessarily spent in performing the duties imposed by the act.

II. The county commissioners have various duties to perform under the Registry law, but as they have counsel to advise them it is not necessary to set forth their duties in this exposition.

III. As to the election officers. They are to open the polls between the hours of six and seven, am., on the day of election. Before six o'clock in the morning of second Tuesday of October they are to receive from the county commissioners the registered list of voters and all necessary election blanks, and they are to permit no man to vote whose name is not on said list, unless he shall make proof of his right to vote as follows:

1. The person whose name is not on the list, claiming the right to vote, must produce a qualified voter of the district to swear in a written or printed affidavit to the residence of the claimant in the district for at least ten days next preceding said election, defining clearly where the residence of the person was.

2. The party claiming the right to vote shall also make an affidavit, stating to the best of his knowledge and belief where and when he was born, that he is a citizen of Pennsylvania and of the United States, that he has resided in the State one year, or, if formerly a citizen therein and removed therefrom, that he has resided therein six months next preceding said election, that he has not moved into the district for the purpose of voting therein, that he has paid a State or county tax within two years, which was assessed at least ten days before the election, and the affidavit shall state when and where the tax was assessed and paid, and the tax receipt must be produced unless the affiant shall state that it has been lost or destroyed, or that he received none.

3. If the applicant be a naturalized citizen he must in addition to the foregoing proofs, state in his affidavit when, where, and by what court he was naturalized, and produce his certificate of naturalization.

4. Every person, claiming to be a naturalized citizen, whether on the registry list, or producing affidavits as aforesaid, shall be required to produce his naturalization certificate at the election before voting, except where he has been for ten years consecutively a voter in the district where he offers to vote; and on the vote of such person being received, the election officers are to write or stamp the word "voted" on his certificate with the month and year, and no other vote can be cast that day in virtue of said certificate, except where sons are entitled to vote upon the naturalization of their father.

5. If the person claiming to vote who is not registered shall make an affidavit that he is a native born citizen of the United States, or, if born elsewhere, shall produce evidence of his naturalization, or that he is entitled to citizenship by the reason of his father's naturalization, and further, that he is between 21 and 22 years of age; and has resided in the State one year, and in the election, district ten days next preceding the election, he shall be entitled to vote though he shall not have paid taxes.

IV. As to the voters. 1. Any qualified citizen of the district has a right to challenge any voter, though his name be on the registry list, and the election board are required to receive the proofs publicly, and to admit or reject the vote, according to evidence.

2. On the petition of five or more citizens of the county, stating under oath that they believe that frauds will be practiced at the election about to be held in any district, it shall be the duty of the court of common pleas, or of a judge thereof, to appoint two judicious, sober and intelligent citizens to act as overseers of said election, who are to belong to different parties, except where both inspectors belong to the same political party, and then the overseers are to be taken from the opposite political party, and then the overseers are to have the right to be present with the officers of election, to keep a list of voters, to challenge voters, and generally to perform the same duties as inspectors.

The act is full of penalties and forfeitures; but as these are to be enforced by courts of justice, it is not necessary to set them forth for the guidance of assessors, election officers and voters. A popular election will be very difficult if all the provisions of the law be strictly enforced. Indeed, it is not easy to see how election officers are to find time to receive the ballots of the qualified voters in some precincts, if they investigate thoroughly all the issues that may be brought before them; and when it is considered that all the elections are thrown upon the general election, and that separate tickets are to be voted for State, county, township and municipal officers at the same time that judicial questions are to be investigated and decided, it is apparent that many citizens will be liable to lose their chance to vote unless they are vigilant and vote early.

Every man should see for himself that he is registered, taxed and, if he is a naturalized foreigner, that he is provided with his proper papers. The law will bear, as it was designated to do, very heavily on naturalized citizens. It creates all possible obstructions to their exercise of the right of suffrage, and nothing but vigilance and perseverance on their parts can secure their rights. "The price of liberty is eternal vigilance."—Luzerne Union.

THE LAW OF BETTING ON ELECTIONS.—In the Supreme Court of California, in the case of Johuson vs Russell, an interesting decision has been made on betting on elections. Johnson made several bets on the result of the Presidential election, and Russell was the stakeholder; but the plaintiff allowed the stakes to rest without any demand, until the 23d of November, when it became certain that he had lost his money. Then he sent the stakeholder, Russell, a written notice not to pay the money or any part of it over to the winner, and that if he did plaintiff would hold the stakeholder responsible for his part of the stakes. Russell did pay the money to the winner, and hence this suit. The Court decide—Sanderson writing the opinion—first, that gambling on popular elections is against public policy, and therefore illegal; second, that money wagered may be recovered at law, if the party who staked it makes a demand for the same before the event on which he wagered has been decided: third, that if the better allows his stakes to remain in the stakeholder's hands without any demand for its return until the event has been decided, he cannot then come into court and sue for its recovery. This was what the plaintiff did in the case decided. He waited and stood upon the laws of honor till he found he had lost, and then he appealed from the laws of honor to the laws of the land. The court was unanimously of the opinion that to allow him this appeal would be to encourage fraud. The conclusion of the opinion is: "After the money has been lost and won neither party ought to be heard in a court of justice.

NOVEL SUBJECT OF FELINE AFFECTION.—A remarkable instance of feline affection has been brought to our notice. A family residing on Pine street own a large Maltese cat, which is a great favorite. It was observed some time since that she was particularly taken with a small animal to which she was devoting much attention. On examination it was found to be a young rat! How long she had been taking care of it could not be ascertained, but that she had formed a strong affection for it was evident. In order to ascertain the extent of her strange fancy, the rat was secretly placed out of her reach in a box on a post several feet from the ground, and carefully concealed in some way. In the morning pussy was discovered on the ground close to the post, with her novel pet affectionately embraced in her paws, having by some means obtained possession of it during the night. She was permitted to retain it, and subsequently added two more to her adopted family, all of which she continued to nurture with care and affection, till some strange cats made a raid one night and devoured all of them.

It is rather a singular circumstance that a cat should form such an attachment for a family of young rats.—Lycoming Gazette.

WHILE an ignorant lecturer was describing the nature of gas, a blue stocking lady inquired of a gentleman near her what was the difference between oxygen and hydrogen? "Very little, madame," said he "by oxygin we mean pure gin, and by hydrogin, gin and water."

A QUACK was called by mistake to attend a council of physicians in a critical case. After considerable discussion, the opinion was expressed by one that the patient was convalescent. "Convalescent!" interrupted the quack; "why that's nothing serious; I have cured convalescents in twenty-four hours."

Arsenic Eaters in Europe.

Dr. Lewy says that in Syria and the Bohemian parts of the Riesengebirge there are families in which from time immemorial the habit of arsenic-eating has been transmitted from father to son. These people are always very silent about their mania, and only by mere accident can any one become acquainted with their perverted appetite. Like the horses, the arsenic-eaters are strong and healthy looking, having finely blended, delicate skin, which is free from every kind of pimples and insects, and remarkably exempt from eruptive diseases. These people learn the habit in their earliest youth, when about a quarter of a grain of white arsenic, (oxide of arsenic,) measured by the eye, is taken daily. The dose is gradually increased with the age, and an old arsenic-eater will only feel comfortable when he has taken at least two or three grains daily. They assert that the poison keeps them sprightly and healthy; that it protects them against all chronic diseases; that they have, especially just after taking it, an agreeable feeling about the chest; breathe freely, and have a good appetite. The effect of taking away the arsenic from an habitual arsenic-eater is similar to that produced by the deprivation of opium, tobacco, or spirits, only the effect is more intese. The person thus deprived of his stimulant becomes melancholy, ill-tempered; symtoms of an intestinal catarrh appear, often increasing in such a way that one can well believe he is observing a case of slight arsenic poisoning. The only remedy here is arsenic, and if this be not given, the unfortunate man goes rapidly to the grave. The patient cannot be cured at once; he must be weaned from the disease as he commenced it, gradually. This strange habit is very widely spread among the peasants of Austria and Hungary, and even in some parts of the German states.

THE DEACON'S TRIAL.—A few years ago there lived on the outskirts of a pretty village, in New Hampshire, an old farmer who was known among his neighbors as "Deacon Stubbs." In early life the deacon had been rather wild, and it was only when somewhat advanced in years that he was converted from the error of his ways under the ministration of good old Parson Brown. From that time Stubbs had been a zealous and exemplary member of the village church. But the deacon had one sore trial of patience. Old Brindle, the best cow of his small herd, was wofully given to kicking. Many a time, after the deacon had nearly filled his three gallon pail with rich milk from her udder, a sharp quick motion of her right hind leg would send pail and contents flying half way across the barnyard. The deacon had tried coaxing, he had tried kicking, and finally come to the conclusion that nothing would ever break that cow of her bad tricks.

One fine morning in June, just as the sun was peeping over the eastern hills, Stubbs sat down upon his three-legged stool to milk old Brindle. Everything went on well; the animal stood meekly quiet, and the deacon began to hope that he should have no more trouble with her. The pail was almost full, the creamy froth already overtopped the brim, when, whizz! the cow raised her foot; the pail was upset in an instant, and its lacteal treasures scattered far and wide. "I swow!" exclaimed the deacon, with emphasis. Springing to his feet he seized a heavy stick and began to belabor the poor cow with all his might. As the blows fell thick and fast a shower of oaths such as he had not uttered before since he had "jined church" issued from the deacon's mouth. Desisting at length from his exercise, he was thunderstruck, on raising his eyes to behold his own minister Parson Brown, looking over the fence within six feet of him, with hands uplifted and face ghastly with horror, "Why, Parson Brown! I—I—" stammered the deacon. "Deacon Stubbs!" groaned the Parson, "I am shocked, I am grieved to hear such profane language from a member of my church!" The deacon humbly confessed his fault, and expressed the greatest contrition for his fall from grace. "But," he added, "but, Parson Brown, I am persuaded that I shall never enjoy religion so long as I keep that 'ere keow."

To keep up the fertility of our pastures it is evident that we must do our best to check the growth of such vegetation as is rejected by stock as well as that which would injure stock, if it were eaten. But it is not enough to destroy the useless and injurious plants; we must encourage the growth of the valuable ones. How shall these objects be accomplished?

SWEET ANSWER.—A little boy and girl, each probably five years old, were by the roadside. As we came up, the boy became angry at something, and struck his playmate a sharp blow on the cheek, whereupon she sat down and began to cry piteously. The boy stood looking on sullenly for a minute, and then said: "I didn't mean to hurt you, Katie; I am sorry." The little rosy face brightened instantly. The sobs were hushed, and she said: "Well, if you are sorry, it don't hurt me."

A prying correspondent of the N. W. Christian Advocate writes that in his charge of 240 members, there are seventy-five who chew tobacco—about one-third. Taking one-fourth as a certainly proper basis, he calculates that of the 23,000 members of the Illinois Conference, 5,750 use tobacco. Of the 1,000,000 members of the M. E. Church in the United States, there are 250,000. Supposing that these members pay only $10 per year for this luxury, they spit away only $2,500,000 per year. If given to benevolent objects what a sudden reputation for benevolence our Methodist friends would acquire. As they are probably no worse than other denominations, it becomes a curious speculation as to how much tobacco juice is distributed instead of the gospel.

Humorous Column.

PEPPERY.—There was a knot of sea captains in a store at Honolulu, the keeper of which had just bought a barrel of black pepper. Old Captain —— came in, and, seeing the pepper, took up a handful of it.

"What did you buy such stuff as that for?" said he to the store keeper, "it's half peas."

"Peas!" replied the storekeeper, "no there isn't a pea in it."

Taking up a handfull as he spoke, he appealed to the company. They all looked at it, and plunged their hands into the barrel, and bit a kernel or so, and gave it as their universal opinion that there wasn't a pea in it.

"I tell you there is," said the old captain scooping up a handful, "and I'll bet a dollar on it."

The old argument all over the world. They took him up.

"Well," said he, "spell that," pointing to the word "P-e-p-p-e-r," painted on the side of the barrel. "If it isn't half p's then I'm no judge, that's all." The bet was paid.

SHREWD.—A gentleman was chatting with a little girl on a railway train, when she suddenly looked up in his and said—

"You look like Abraham Lincoln."

"Do I ?" said the gentleman, "how do you know I'm not?"

"He's dead," said the child, with an astonished look at the questioner; "they killed him."

"Well," said the gentleman, "but didn't Abraham Lincoln have a brother?"

The child looked puzzled for a minute, and then quietly remarked—

"My father saw Abraham Lincoln."

"Did he?" said the gentleman.

"Yes; after he was dead he saw him. Did you ever see him?"

"No," said the gentleman, "I never saw him."

"Then," said the child, triumphantly, "of course you ain't his brother."

Two Irishmen stopped at the Island House, Toledo, lit their gas, and, with window open, sat down to enjoy a chat. The hungriest of Toledo mosquitoes soon flocked in and drove them desperate. The clerk, who was summoned to devise some defense against them, told them to close the windows and put out the gas. They acted on the suggestion and placed themselves between the sheets. Just as they began to doze, a lightning-bug, which had strayed into the room, caught the eye of one of the travelers. He roused his companion with a punch, "Jamie, Jamie, it's no use! Here's one of the craturs sarchin for us wid a lantern!"

A MOUNTED officer was riding by a field in which there were some apple-trees laden with early fruit, and some straggling persimmon-trees covered with green persimmons. He saw some soldiers attempting to hide, and at once suspected that they were robbing the orchard. So he halted, and the following colloquy took place: "Halloo, what are you doing there?" said the officer. "We come to git some 'simmons.'" "Apples, I suspect. Why, the persimmons are green enough to pucker up you mouths." "That's jist what we want with 'em. We want to make our mouths little to suit our rations!"

THERE was a duel in Cohoes, N. Y., the other day. The seconds kindly drew the balls before the fire, which was manfully delivered. But, at the instant of firing, one of the seconds threw a small pebble against the breast of his principal's opponent, who supposing he was fatally wounded, fainted and fell. The other, seeing the effect of his shot dropped his weapon and fled to the woods, and has not since been seen. The man who fell recovered soon afterwards, and upon inquiry was told that his antagonist had been killed by his shot, and his mortal remains were then reposing beneath the clods. This in turn alarmed the last "survivor," and he also fled to parts unknown.

WASHINGTON IRVING and Lewis Gaylord Clark, while walking near Sleepy Hollow, were overtaken by a storm; there were great thundering and lightning, and Mr. Irving took refuge under a tree, asking his companion: "Why don't you come in here and be as comfortably housed as I am?" "I daren't do it, my dear sir," replied Mr. Clark. "I am afraid of lightning. My father was once nearly killed by it while standing under a tree in a thunder storm, and he always enjoined it upon his twin boys never to do the like." "Oh," said Mr. Irving, "that alters the case. If lightning runs in your family, I commend your caution."

DANIEL WEBSTER'S FRIGHT.—No situation more perfectly paves the way for a hearty laugh at the end, than that of two strangers obliged to be together and in mutual terror of each other. Nothing can be more comically uncomfortable than a couple of honest men eyeing each other askance an hour or two, when all the time "one is afraid and the other daresn't."

Upon one occasion Mr. Webster was on his way to attend to his duties at Washington. He was compelled to proceed at night by stage from Baltimore. He had no traveling companions, and the driver had a sort of felon-lord which produced no inconsiderable alarm with the Senator.

"I endeavored to tranquilize myself," said Mr. Webster, "and had partially succeeded, when we reached the woods between Bladensburg and Washington (a proper scene for murder or outrage), and here I confess, my courage again deserted me."

"Just then the driver, turning to me, with a gruff voice asked my name. I gave it to him.

"Where are you going?" said he.

The reply was, "to Washington. I am a Senator."

"Upon this the driver seized me fervently by the hand, and exclaimed, 'How glad I am! I have been trembling in my seat for the last hour, for when I looked at you I took you to be a highwayman.' Of course, both parties were relieved."

The Columbian
—AND—
Bloomsburg Democrat.

BLOOMSBURG, PA.

FRIDAY MORNING, AUGUST 27, 1869.

THE COLUMBIAN has the Largest Circulation of any paper published in Northern Pennsylvania, and is also a much larger sheet than any of its cotemporaries; and is therefore the best medium for advertising in this section of the State.

Important to Editors and Printers.

WE have on hand, and will sell at low rates three hand presses, which have accumulated by the purchase of a Power and Gordon press, and by the consolidation of the Democrat with the COLUMBIAN.

1. A Washington Hoe Press, new, platen 41x26 inches. It was in use only ten months, with a light edition.

2. A Washington Hoe Press, formerly in Democrat & Star office, platen 36x23 inches. It is complete and sound.

3. A Washington Hoe Press, new, foolscap size, platen 19½x14½ inches. It is almost indispensable in an office not having a Gordon.

In addition to this we have a large quantity of bourgeois, nonpareil, rules, chases, job type, etc., sufficient to start an office, which we will sell in lots or together, as purchasers may prefer.

The Dr. John Relief Bill.

WHEN Dr. John's service as Assessor of this Revenue district ended, he had on hand revenue stamps to an amount exceeding $700,—for which he was accountable to the Government. He was authorized to return them to the Treasury Department in order to receive a proper credit, and attempted to do so by enclosing them in a letter mailed and registered at the Bloomsburg post-office. That registered letter was never received at the Treasury and was probably purloined on its way.

At the session of Congress in 1868 a special act was passed for the Doctor's relief, authorizing a credit for the amount of the stamps to be entered upon his account as Assessor. The bill for his relief after passing the House was passed in the Senate without opposition, but was retained there a short time on a motion to reconsider submitted by Mr. Buckalew to enable him to examine the evidence and papers in the case.

On the 25th of July Mr. Buckalew, after full examination made the following remarks upon the subject of the bill and withdrawing his motion to reconsider, the bill stood passed. We quote from the Congressional Globe, 2nd session 40th Congress, q. 4439.

"MR. BUCALEW. House bill No. 433, relating to the claim of Palemon John, a former assessor of Internal Revenue in Pennsylvania, was passed some days since and I entered a motion to reconsider. I desire to say that I have examined all the papers since the passage of the bill, and I find there is only one defect in the case. I allude to this now, because the case arises in my own district. The amount of stamps which it is alleged Mr. John returned to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, is proved only by his own oath. That is a point to which I have directed my attention. The evidence is very satisfactory that he mailed stamps directed to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue at the post office at Bloomsburg. The post-master swears to that fact and the fact is indisputable. It also appears very clearly by the investigations which were made under the direction of the Post-Master General, that that registered letter was purloined from the mails or lost, somewhere between Bloomsburg and Philadelphia. It seems also that another letter sent the day following by the post master there notifying the post master at Washington city of the mailing of the registered letter, never reached its destination. It appears probable, in fact I believe, from the papers that both these letters, the letter transmiting the stamps and the letter of advice from the post master at Bloomsburg to the post master at Washington, was purloined from the mails after they left Bloomsburg, having been mailed there.

Under the circumstances, although the oath of the claimant alone fixes the amount of the stamps which he mailed, it seems reasonably clear that he did mail about the amount which he states. That was exactly the balance necessary to close his account, some $700. He is a man of credit and veracity and swears to the fact, and now, under an amendment of the laws of the United States introduced by myself, he would be admitted in the Federal Courts on his oath as a witness even in a case where he was a party. Upon examining his account at the Internal Revenue Department, I think there is such moral certainty in the case that I am willing to withdraw my motion to reconsider and let the bill stand passed, although I acknowledge, in ordinary cases, it would be very hazardous indeed to permit a party to get a claim through on his own oath.

The PRESIDING OFFICE:—If there be no objection, leave will be granted to withdraw the motion to reconsider. There appears to be no objection and the motion is withdrawn."

SENATORIAL DISTRICT VOTE.—The following is the correct Democratic vote of the counties composing this Senatorial district, at the Presidential election of 1868.

NEVER HEARD.—We never heard of Asa Packer, when his money sent him to Congress. He seems to have been a perfect cipher in that body.—American.

Isn't there a similar case in Ulysses Mercur from this district? He has been sent to Congress for six years; he went as a cipher, he yet remains a cipher and the respectable people of this district begin to sigh for his sweet retirement to the charms of private life. Messrs. Radicals if we were in your places we would not do so dangerous a thing as comment upon political ciphers. Look around you in your own party, from Grant to Mercur,—including Covode—and try if you can count them.

Murder! Murder!!
CRIME.

SUICIDE OF A CRIMINAL.

WILLIAMSPORT, August, 20.—The body of Martin Billmyer, of Northumberland county, who was convicted of illicit distilling at the last term of the United States Court, and confined in jail here was found back of the jail, this morning, with his throat cut. He had been missing since Tuesday evening. On account of aberration of mind he had been allowed unusual liberty by the jailor. He held the fatal knife in his hand when found.—Telegram.

"The more obnoxious and objectionable a law is, the more strictly will I see it executed."—GRANT.

In the above case there was no crime and it was not the suicide of a criminal. It was the case of an innocent citizen, driven to insanity and self-murder, by the hounds who compose the "radical whisky ring." No man who attended that trial believed Martin Billmyer guilty of any intent to defraud the revenue, or do a wrong to any man or interest. And without the guilty intent there can be no crime. The law in relation to distilling, was well and justly characterized by defendant's counsel, as one impossible to be understood by a plain man, or even by the officials themselves; and all the evidence in the case went to show that Billmyer had done with scrupulous fidelity and exactness, everything that had been required of him.

But the "whiskey ring" has no mercy and the Juries, packed by Radical United States marshals for the work required, do it unquestioningly; and the court are then bound to inflict the penalty which the act of Congress attaches to the verdict of "Guilty." Thousands of signatures obtained in the counties of Columbia, Montour and Northumberland, asking Grant to pardon him, attest the public sentiment to Billmyer's innocence. But Grant, instead of being in Washington attending to his business, was with "immense delight" riding behind the fast horses of Bonner in Central Park, New York, smoking segars and drinking whiskey on the race course on Long Island, or dancing like a harlequin at the hoe downs at Long Branch.

And so poor Billmyer, the victim of these Radicals, can lie like a dog in the bushes till the decaying body tells the tale of his death; while the smell of one hundred barrels of his whiskey, seized by the Government, salutes the olfactories of the quiet citizens of Bloomsburg. Persecution, confiscation, insanity, death!

How long, O Lord! how long?

Card of Explanation.

ORANGEVILLE, Pa. Aug. 23, 1869.

MR EDITOR:—The question being frequently asked me "why I did not allow my name to come before the Democratic County Convention held on the 3rd inst?" the reason for my not doing so, is this: By an arrangement between Mr. Zarr and myself on the morning of the Convention, it was agreed that I should withdraw and not allow my name to be used as he (Mr. Zarr) was of the opinion that he could, without doubt, get the nomination, and as my chance at that hour looked very doubtful for the nomination I submitted to Mr. Zarr's proposition. He claimed (no doubt honestly) that he could control more delegates than I could, and by me giving him my delegates he could defeat Mr. Jacoby, but he was much mistaken.

After I had given way to Mr. Zarr, I found I could have controled more delegates than he did, and know, had I allowed my name to go before that Convention I could have received the nomination for Register and Recorder, as the delegates from the following named townships would have voted for me. It is too late to mend the matter now, but it is due to my friends and myself that this matter should be explained. Had Mr. Zarr not come before the Convention I could have received the two delegates from Beaver, two from Briarcreek, two from Centre, two from North Conyngham, two from South Conyngham, two from Fishingcreek, two from Franklin, two from Locust, two from Maine, two from Madison, two from Mifflin, two from Mt. Pleasant, two from Orange, two from Pine, two from Roaringcreek, and one from Scott; in all 31 votes.

Jacoby would have stood thus: Two from Bloom, two from Benton, two from Borough Berwick, two from Catawissa, two from Centralia Borough, two from Greenwood, two from Hemlock, two from Jackson, two from Montour, two from Sugarloaf, and 1 from Scott; in all 21 votes.

This is a plain statement of facts and thanking my friends for their kind support, I shall ever

Remain theirs truly,
JOHN SNYDER.

CAN SUCH THINGS BE, CANBY?—That while the despot of France is opening the prison doors to political offenders, and granting universal amnesty to other classes of prisoners, can it be that you, Canby, in this free republic, have the conscience to insist upon the rigid application of a form of oath—giving your own interpretation thereto, by the way—that was only intended for operation at a certain critical period, now long since passed and gone? Verily, there seems to be more justice and moderation in imperial France than republican Virginia under thy rule, Canby!—N. Y. Herald.

Book Notice.

A BOOK of good Fairy Tales is an acquisition to young persons. "LEGENDS FROM FAIRY LAND," is a good Collection in Prose and Poetry.

"GEMS OF GERMAN LYRICS," A selection of short pieces in German, with an English translation on the opposite page. Among them is Lenau's "Refuge" and "Gaze into the stream," etc.

"PROTESTANT GEMS OF THE PRAYER BOOK," a book well worth the study of all.

Also "HETTY" by Kingsley. "THE SEVEN CURSES OF LONDON," by James Greenwood.

MR. PRESIDENT GRANT on Saturday last accepted the invitation of a Mr. Brick to spend the day at a place named Bricksburg, in New Jersey. During the day Mr. B. presented Mr. G. with fifty acres of town lots in that classic locality, which, incredible as it may appear, were "pleasantly, accepted!"

If any body knows of a present of any kind from an orange to a service of plate having been "pleasantly" refused, we should be pleased to hear of it. Tender hearted Grant, he dislikes to inflict pain!

THE TRIALS.

GOVERNMENT WITNESSES:—We have already examined the evidence and general status of six of the witnesses called by the prosecution in the Harrisburg trials. Those which remain may be disposed of more briefly, with two notable exceptions. We are anxious on the one hand to present all the testimony against the prisoners or its full substance, and explain who the persons were by whom it was given, and on the other to avoid prolixity and undue minuteness of details. Our narrative to be fair, exhaustive, satisfactory and conclusive, must be reasonably full in exhibiting the evidence upon both sides; but we will consult the convenience of our readers by being as concise as possible in our further citations and statements.

Against Daniel M'Henry were examined six witnesses in addition to those before mentioned. Five of these we shall now dispose of, reserving one for future treatment and for a just (because merited) castigation.

GILBERT C. M'WAINE, Esq. of Shickshinny, formerly of Huntington township, testified to remarks made by Daniel M'Henry at a meeting in Benton in June 1863. The witness says that he attended the meeting to obtain volunteers, (we suppose to fill the quota of Huntington township,) that he showed his authority and gave public invitation. M'Henry thereupon said that "it was his opinion the quickest way to put down the rebellion was not to furnish a man or a dollar." Upon his cross-examination, however, the witness testified further, that M'Henry "argued the cause of the war; said the troubles were brought about by the abolitionists and the war might have been settled on the basis of the Crittenden compromise, I think he did say if we would pass the Crittenden Compromise to the Constitution we need not furnish men or money. He made a remark that they should wait patiently and appeal to the ballot-box; I do not think he said anything disloyal. He opposed the carrying on of the war to liberate the negroes; he favored carrying on the war for the Constitution and the Union."

Taken together this testimony exhibits a political argument which whether correct or not, was innocent and was one of common and open use during the war. It may have been prompted in part at that time by the attempt of the witness to obtain men to be credited on the quota of a district in another county, thus stripping M'Henry's neighborhood of available means for filling their own. At all events what was said was simply an expression of opinion as to what should be done to restore the Union, and it was not an expression of hostility to the enforcement of law.

CHAS. GIBBENS of Benton township, a farmer, testified that he attended the Rantz meeting (Aug. 14,'64) in the forenoon but left about one o'clock. He further stated that he had "attended three or four of the so-called secret meetings; never saw M'Henry at one, nor ever heard of his attending any." His testimony concerning the Rantz meeting we will reserve until that subject shall be reached.

JONAS DOTY of Fishingcreek township, farmer, was called to prove declarations made by M'Henry three years before in a conversation with him. They were very improbable in character and evidently colored and perverted if not manufactured outright. Upon objection made by counsel for Defendant the Commission rejected this testimony and it was struck from the record. Mr. Doty retired with his malice ungratified.

AARON SMITH of Benton township, farmer, testified that he attended one secret meeting at the house of Peter Case. He was a member. The oath as near as he could remember was this:—"to be true to the Constitution and the laws of the United States; the signs were not to be revealed." On cross-examination he added, "that was all that I ever knew about the oath; Daniel M'Henry was not there." This witness was also examined as to the remarks of M'Henry at the Benton meeting in 1863 about not giving money or men to the war the way it was carried on. His testimony upon this point was very much the same as that given by Esq. M'Waine, though somewhat less distinct and emphatic.

WM. EVANS of Fishingcreek, boatman, was examined on the subject of secret meetings but without any very satisfactory result. He "attended so-called secret meetings; one or two, could not say positively," but it turned out that he attended but one which was at the Savage School House in March 1863. The date is important as fixing the time when those Club meetings were in vogue, and this witness is worth looking after because he is the only one who locates Daniel M'Henry in one of those meetings. The witness appears in his testimony timidly anxious to escape responsibility. He says, "I was partly a member; I never went through; I was invited; I never was there but once; I was the only one [initiated;] I did not get through." Subsequently he says, "I attended no secret meetings after that time; I did not walk far down [to the meeting;] I went boating;" The fact was, the witness was afraid and confused before the Commission; he had the terror of military power before his eyes, and hence his scattered answers and disclaimers. Although initiated and sworn he says he was only partly a member; he did not get through; he did not walk far to the meeting, and he went boating as quickly as possible! Club membership had become a sharp danger when men were put in dungeons for it, and when it figured in formal charges before the Commission and men were convicted for it as for a criminal offense. But we can relieve Mr. Evans from all his doubts and concern in case his mind is yet exercised over his perilous connection with the "so-called secret meetings." If he will take our word for it, we can assure him, that he did get completely through the whole mystery of the secret meetings; that he was not partly a member but was one in 'full communion;' that his membership involved nothing of crime or disgrace and requires no apology, and that when he went boating after his short walk to the Savage School House he was just as good a man and as good a patriot as he had ever been before.

As to the oath taken by him and the object of the meeting, Evans proceeded to say—"the oath, near as I can recollect it, was to support the constitution of the United States and the Union. The Constitution of the U. S. was to be the constitution of the society. * * I cannot recollect whether we were to support all laws of the land. * * I got there by being told there was to be a meeting at the School House. It was public; the house was all open. It was not considered a meeting to resist the draft. It was purely political; not for the purpose of resisting the draft." He also said. "there were twenty to twenty-five persons present; would not say the number; Daniel M'Henry made a speech there. Can't recollect what he said. It was a political speech. John Savage, Charles Kramer, William J. Kramer, Alexander Kramer and one of the M'Henry's were there; also Levi Lunger."

This concludes the testimony of a government witness about a secret meeting which was open! about a disloyal assemblage which was sworn to support the Constitution of the Union!

In our next number we shall pass on to matters of more interest and shall approach the end of our analysis of government testimony.

Sad Case of Suicide.

MARTIN BILLMYER, THE VICTIM, DESTROYS HIMSELF WITH A KNIFE.

On Friday morning about 8 o'clock, Mr. J. K. Hays, of this city, while looking among the shrubbery in the rear end of his garden for a kitten that had been missing, suddenly came upon the mutilated and decaying remains of a dead man, which proved to be the body of Martin Billmyer, late an inmate of the county jail. Mr. Billmyer, it will be remembered, was sentenced at the last term of the U. S. Circuit Court to six months' imprisonment, besides paying a fine of $1,000, for violation of the internal revenue law in the manufacture of whisky.

For some time past it had been apparent to all who observed him that his mind was more or less under the influence of despondency bordering on insanity, and the sheriff had very kindly given him a number of unusual liberties under the circumstances. His mind seemed to be more exercised on last Tuesday that it had previously been, and he expressed a very strong desire to see his family. In the evening it was found that he had disappeared, and all search for him proving fruitless, the sheriff started for the place of his residence in order, if possible, to learn something concerning his whereabouts. No trace of him could be found until he was stumbled upon by Mr. Hays as already stated.

Justice Hepburn summoned a coroner's jury consisting of the following gentlemen: Charles E. Miller, Foreman; W. H. Phillips, D. Robinson, James Rothrock, Charles Scheffel and G. S. Ransom, who, after visiting the scene of the sad occurrence, adjourned until the afternoon, when the following verdict was rendered:

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Lycoming county, City of Williamsport:

An inquisition inducted and taken at Williamsport in the county of Lycoming, this 20th day of August, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-nine, before John Hepburn, J. P., of the county aforesaid, upon the view of the body of Martin Billmyer, then and there lying dead, upon the oath of Charles E. Miller, W. H. Phillips, David Robinson, James Rothrock, Charles Scheffel and G. S. Ransom, good lawful citizens of the county aforesaid, who, being sworn and affirmed to inquire on the part of the commonwealth when, where, how and after what manner the said Martin Billmyer came to his death, do say that the said Martin Billmyer did, while laboring under a mental aberration, stab himself and cut his own throat with a common pocket knife, and that the same Martin Billmyer came to his death as aforesaid and not otherwise.

JOHN HEPBURN, J. P.

Charles E. Miller, Foreman, W. H. Phillips, David Robinson, Charles Scheffel, G. S. Ransom, James Rothrock.

The circumstances attending this melancholy affair are very sad indeed. It was becoming the general impression that the offense for which he was imprisoned had been committed by him in ignorance of the law concerning such matters, and a petition had been extensively circulated and signed for his release, with the above reason. He must have made way with himself on the same evening he was first missed, as it was evident when he was found that he had been dead some time. We understand he was about 54 years of age, and that his family was well known and highly respected. His body was taken to Montour county by his friends for interment. The sheriff and his family, we are assured, treated him with every consideration of courtesy and kindness in their power, and whatever the indiscretion may have been in allowing him such liberties, no one, we are inclined to think, will censure the sheriff for pursuing the course that he did.—Lycoming Gazette.

How The Public Debt is Decreased.

GEO. S. BOUTWELL, Secretary of the Treasury, is bidding high for the Presidency, and as an electioneering card he proclaims monthly a decrease of the public debt. A creature of hisby the name of Tulluck, a subordinate in the Treasury Department, makes up reports to order, on which the ambitious Secretary bases his monthly announcements. But figures don't lie, much as they may be perverted in the use made of them by radical arithmeticians. The following is a correct statement of the amount of the public debt at different periods, from the first of April, 1865, until the first of July last:

April 1, 1865	$2,366,035,077
September 1, 1865	2,757,680,571
November 1, 1867	2,401,504,450
November 1, 1868	2,527,129,532
July 1, 1869	2,645,170,294

From this it will be seen that, instead of the debt having been diminished, it has been augmented, during the last four years. It is now nearly three hund millions more than it was on the first of April, 1865. This increase has taken place during a period of profound peace. Since November last one hundred and fifteen millions have been added to the huge and intolerable load. Tullock may figure and Boutwell proclaim, but they cannot wipe out what Mr. Mantilini would style the "demnition total." To assume a virtue though you have it not, will sometimes deceive the unwary, but the galled and sensitive yoke bearers groaning under the burden of radical taxation, cannot be tricked into the belief that the load is lessening so long as it bears them nearer and nearer to earth.—Patriot.

The National Game.

On Friday last the famous Athletic Base Ball Club of Philadelphia played a game with the Riverside Club of Catawissa on the grounds of the latter.

FIRST INNING.—The Riversides won the toss and sent their opponents to the bat. Berry was caught on a fly ball, Cuthbert in a similar way and Fisler followed on a foul into the hands of the catcher. Total runs 9.

The Riversides were soon disposed of Baldy on a foul by Radcliff, Kase struck out, and Kline caught out by M'Mullen.—No runs.

SECOND INNING.—M'Bride gave a fly to Galbraith in right field and retired, Berry was caught by Whelan in left field and Sensenderfer was put out on 2d base—34 runs.

Abbott struck out, Gilroy struck a foul which was taken by Radcliff and Whelan followed suit. 1 run was scored, by Biddle.

THIRD INNING.—Berry went out on a foul, Reach was put out at first base, and Fisler at the same place,—3 runs.

Whelan was caught at 3d base by Foran, Kase out at first and Kline out at first—1 run by Baldy.

FOURTH INNING.—M'Mullen retired from a ball to first and also at home base, Sensenderfer on a foul,—15 runs.

Moyer was caught by M'Mullen, short stop, Gilroy caught by M'Bride, Galbraith out at first, ball thrown in by M'Mullen,—no runs.

FIFTH INNING.—M'Mullen caught by Kline, pitcher, and on fly by Gilroy at first, Foran out at first—7 runs.

Whelan caught by Reach at 2d base, Biddle out at first, Moyer followed on a foul,—2 runs.

SIXTH INNING.—Berry retired on a foul, M'Bride followed at first and Cuthbert at first from a ball from Kase at 3d base,—1 run.

Gilroy gave a fly to Fisler, Whelan was put out at 2d, Kline out at first,—3 runs.

The game was called at the end of the sixth inning, it having become too dark to continue.

We append the full score.

ON the following day a match was played on the fair grounds at this place between the Athletics and the Independent Nine of Bloomsburg. The day was favorable being somewhat cloudy and the intense heat was relieved by a cool breeze which prevailed during most of the afternoon.

The game was called at quarter past two o'clock and the Athletics winning the toss sent the Bloom boys to the bat.

FIRST INNING.—Neal led off but soon retired on a foul to Radcliffe, catcher, Appleman was disposed of by Cuthbert at first and Furman was caught by Radcliff on a foul,—no runs.

M'Bride opened the game for the Athletics. He struck a long ball to left field which was handsomely taken on a run by Billmyer. Reach gained his first base and Cuthburt then struck a hot grounder to Neal, short stop, who picked it up and throwing it to E. Elwell at second base put out Reach, Elwell threw the ball to G. Elwell at first base and put out Cuthbert. This very brilliant double play elicited much applause. The Athletics made no runs.

SECOND INNING.—E. Elwell went to the bat and reached first on three strikes, Billmyer went out on three strikes. G. Elwell gave a fly to M'Bride and Shutt was put out on first,—1 run scored by E. Elwell.

Fisler gained his second base, Sensenderfer gave a fly to Appleman in right field which was very handsomely taken, and passed to second in time to put out Fisler, Reach was put out at first. The double play was again warmly applauded,—3 runs were scored.

THIRD INNING.—Neal retired at first, Appleman struck out and Billmyer was so unfortunate as to give a fly which of course was held,—3 runs, scored by Melick, Furman and Buckalew.

Radcliff went out at first, Cuthbert on a fly to Billmyer and Fisler retired at second on a ball from Neal to E. Elwell, —9 runs.

FOURTH INNING.—Shutt gave a fly to Berry, Neal was beautifully caught at third by Foran, Appleman was caught by M'Bride, 1 run scored by G. Elwell.

Radcliff sent a grounder to Neal who passed it to first in good season and Radcliff went out. Berry sent a long ball to Melick at centre field which was taken in capital style. This was undoubtedly a very difficult catch. Cuthbert gave a foul to Furman,—5 runs.

FIFTH INNING.—Furman was caught on a fly by Berry, E. Elwell struck out and G. Elwell out at first,—no runs.

Sensenderfer was caught on a fly by Billmyer, M'Mullen out at first on a ball from Buckalew, Radcliff on a foul, —10 runs.

SIXTH INNING.—Melick out on a fly to Fisler, Neal fly to McBride, and Buckalew struck out,—no runs.

Reach out at first, McBride on a fly to Shutt, and Sensenderfer out at first,—11 runs.

SEVENTH INNING.—Furman gave a fly to Berry and retired, Appleman was put out at third, Billmyer on a fly to McBride,—no runs.

Reach caught by Furman on a foul, and also at first, Cuthbert out at second, —12 runs were scored.

EIGHTH INNING.—G. Elwell caught on foul by McMullen, Neal was caught by Fisler on a fly and Shutt out at home base,—no runs.

Foran out on fly to Shutt, Radcliffe sent a hot one to Neal who picked it up and sent it to G. Elwell at first just in time, Cuthbert was caught by Furman on a foul,—23 runs.

NINTH INNING.—Melick out on a foul to McMullen, Neal in the same way, and Appleman went out at first; thus ending the game for the Bloom boys,—no runs.

Reach was caught by Appleman at right field, McBride sent a hot line ball to Furman at left field which was beautifully taken. This was by all odds the best catch of the game. Radcliffe was caught on a fly by Shutt,—41 runs.

The batting of the Athletics in this last inning was terrific, the balls being driven to all parts of the field and in such manner as to render all attempts at catches impossible.

The fielding of the Bloom boys was vastly better than their batting. Had the latter been more up to the mark the score would have been a better one. McBride did not pitch his famous swift balls, but the ones he delivered were, from the twist, difficult to hit.

The attendance was not so large as might have been expected, but the game is in its infancy in this county as yet.

A good club can be made out of the material which the town affords and practice can undoubtedly make a far better nine than we now have.

The Athletics remained in Bloom over Sunday and took their departure on Monday morning apparently well pleased with their treatment whilst here.

We append a summary.

THE GREAT STORY OF THE YEAR,
THE MIDNIGHT MARRIAGE; OR,
WHOSE WIFE WAS SHE?
BY "HATTIE."

This Story, the best ever penned by this talented and favorite author, will be commenced in a couple of weeks. The subject is a novel one, and treated in a manner that makes it intensely interesting and exciting. A beautiful young girl is married at midnight, and in circumstances that make it impossible for her to find out, in after life, whether she is really the wife of him who claims to be her husband, or of him whom she thought she was marrying. The fascination that surrounds the whole subject, is painfully interesting, and not the least remarkable circumstance connected with it, is the fact that it is a True Story. No reader of

THE FIRESIDE COMPANION,

Or of any other paper, should fail to read this most remarkable of all Stories. Parties should order in advance, copies of The Fireside Companion, containing

THE MIDNIGHT MARRIAGE;

OUR neighbor is repeating Dr. John's old game of writing letters to himself. The dodge is a transparent one.

THE Representative conferees met at Danville on Wednesday last and nominated George Scott for the Legislature. The Senatorial conferees met the same day at Northumberland, but up to the hour of going to press no nomination was made.

LOST.—On Monday last, in or about Bloomsburg, we lost from our watch-guard a gold badge of the second Corps, shaped like a clover leaf, containing our name, a masonic design, the names of numerous battles, &c. The finder will be suitably rewarded by leaving it at this office.

WE commend the elegance of the following, clipped from the Republican, to all lovers of English grammar.

We have taken the liberty of publishing extracts from several letters sent to us by friends who will be surprised to see them letters. One of these letters from the assumed name we believe was intended for publication.

FIRE.—On Monday night, August 16th the distillery of B. F. Edgar in Fishing Creek township about two miles from New Columbus was entirely destroyed by fire together with the contents. Late that evening two young men on their way from Camp meeting stopped at the house and asked for whiskey. Mrs. Edgar in the absence of her husband told them there was none to be had. Shortly after their departure the building was discovered to be in flames. There were 380 gallons of high wines in the distillery which were destroyed. There was no insurance on the property. Loss about $800.

STATE FAIR.—It will be seen upon reference to our columns that the next exhibition of the Pennsylvania State Agricultural Society is to be held in Harrisburg, opening on Tuesday, the 28th of September, and continuing until the 1st of October. The premium list is more than usually liberal, amounting to about $10,000. As the society is about to hold consecutive exhibitions at a fixed locality, its officers have had leisure to perfect conveniences which will add much to the comfort of both exhibitors and visitors. A new feature in agricultural exhibitions is introduced into the regulations of this year, indeed it is but an experiment which we hope will prove a successful one. It is the admission of all articles and animals free of charge upon compliance with the requirements of the society relative to entries. Other details relative to the fair can be obtained by addressing the Secretary at Harrisburg.

OUR neighbor with characteristic virulence still insinuates that the Commissioners' Clerk, or the County Treasurer has stolen $535,00 from the County. In a former number we explained the entire transaction. When the Republican states that no effort was made to detect the thief, he states what several of the stockholders of that paper know to be untrue, as they were consulted immediately upon the discovery of the theft.

It is not true that the county has sustained a dollar of loss; nor will she, unless a jury of her citizens upon oath declare that she should.

If we were disposed to be malicious we might retort by demanding what became of the $700 of stamps which Dr. John claimed credit for from the Government as having been lost, and which loss was allowed upon his own statement. There is no more cause for suspicion in the one case than in the other.

The attempt to prejudice public opinion in a case about to undergo judicial examination is so contrary to the laws of right and decency, that no other journal ever attempted it.

THE Republican of last week referring to the bill which passed Congress in 1868 to relieve Dr. John from liability for stolen revenue stamps, says, that "Hon. Charles R. Buckalew, who was at that time U. S. Senator, we believe, was the only man to raise his voice in opposition to this relief." The falsehood of this statement is fully shown by the extract from the Congressional Globe which we publish in another column, but of course this exposure will not disturb poor Bradley, who has great capacity for printing falsehoods but none at all for correcting them.

The fact is that Dr. John was treated with great indulgence in the matter of the stamps. He was not "ordered to return all the Revenue stamps he had on hand to Washington in a registered letter," as Bradley asserts, but chose that mode of transmission himself. If he had sent them by express they would have gone safely. In the next place, he was careless in not having the stamps examined and counted by the Post-Master or by some one else who could verify his statement afterwards. But he was discharged from liability (we suppose with justice,) and all his editorial successor has to do is to keep a civil tongue in his head about the whole transaction.

THE following Editorial notice appears in "The Advocate," which is the organ of the Methodist E. Church in Buffalo:

"CATARRH REMEDY.—We think we do the public a favor, by calling the attention of those afflicted with catarrh, to the remedy advertised in our columns, as 'Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy.' A son of ours has been seriously afflicted with catarrh for several years, and having tried various remedies without success, we began to fear that in his case there was no cure. But a few months' use of the above medicine has entirely removed all traces of the disease.

"We write the above not for pay, but for the information of those afflicted, and as an act of justice to those by whom we have been benefited."

It is sold by druggists for fifty cents. *

SPECIAL NOTICES

THE GREAT MEDICAL MISTAKE.—Of former days was an utter neglect of sanitary precautions. No efficient means were adopted for the prevention of sickness. Sewerage was unknown in cities; drainage was rarely attempted in the country. Heaps of offal were left to rot in the public streets, and domestic cleanliness, the great antidote to febrile diseases, was sadly neglected. It is not so now. Wise laws, philanthropic institutions, and a vigilant sanitary police, have, to a great extent, remedied the evil. Nor is this all. Preventive Medication has helped materially to lessen the rates of mortality. It is not too much to say that tens of thousands escape sickness in unhealthy seasons in consequence of having invigorated their systems in advance by a course of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. This pure and powerful vegetable tonic and alterative comprises the extracts and essences of a variety of roots and herbs, renowned for their strengthening, soothing, vitalizing and purifying properties. These medicinal agents are incorporated with a spirit absolutely free from the acrid poison which defiles, more or less, all the liquors of commerce, and their effect is diffused through the whole frame by this active, yet harmless stimulant. The result is such a condition of the system as renders it all but impervious to the exterior causes of disease, such as damp, fog, sudden alternations of temperature, &c. Strength, and the perfect regularity of all the functions of the body are the best safe guards against atmospheric poison and the effects of unwholesome water, and HOSTETTER'S BITTERS are the best strengthening and regulating medicine at present known. For dyspepsia and biliousness they are a specific absolute.

A GREAT REMEDY.

THROAT AND LUNG DISEASES.

Dr. Wishart's Pine Tree Tar Cordial.

It is the vital principle of the Pine Tree, obtained by a peculiar process in the distillation of the tar, by which its highest medical properties are retained.

It is the only safeguard and reliable remedy which has ever been prepared from the juice of the Pine Tree.

It invigorates the digestive organs and restores the appetite.

It strengthens the debilitated system.

It purifies and enriches the blood, and expels from the system the corruption which scrofula breeds on the lungs.

It dissolves the mucus or phlegm which stops the air-passages of the lungs.

Its healing principle acts upon the irritated surface of the lungs and throat, penetrating to each diseased part, relieving pain and subduing inflammation.

It is the result of years of study and experiment, and it is offered to the afflicted, with the positive assurance of its power to cure the following diseases, if the patient has not too long delayed a resort to the means of cure:—

Consumption of the Lungs, Cough, Sore Throat, and Breast, Bronchitis, Liver Complaint, Blind and Bleeding Piles, Asthma, Whooping Cough Diptheria, &c., &c.

We are often asked why are not other remedies in the market for Consumption, Coughs, Colds and other Pulmonary affections equal to Dr. L. Q. Wishart's Pine Tree Tar Cordial. We answer—

1st. It cures, not by stopping cough, but by loosening and assisting nature to throw off the unhealthy matter collected about the throat and bronchial tubes, causing irritation and cough.

2d. Most Throat and Lung Remedies are composed of anodynes, which allay the cough for awhile but by their constringing effects, the fibres become hardened, and the unhealthy fluids coagulate and are retained in the system, causing disease beyond the control of our most eminent physicians.

3d. The Pine Tree Tar Cordial, with its assistants, are preferable, because they remove the cause of irritation of the mucous membrane and bronchial tubes, assist the lungs to act and throw off the unhealthy secretions, and purify the blood, thus scientifically making the cure perfect.

Dr. Wishart has on file at his office hundreds and thousands of Certificates, from Men and Women of unquestionable character who were once hopelessly given up to die, but through the Providence of God were completely restored to health by the Pine Tree Tar Cordial. A Physician in attendance who can be consulted in person or by mail, free of charge. Price of Pine Tree Tar Cordial $1.50 per Bottle, $14 per doz. Sent by Express on receipt of price. Address, "L. Q. DOMESTIC ECONOMY!

CAMPILLION CARPET!

A new, cheap durable, healthy, and B

FLOOR COVERING!

A substitute for oil-cloth at one-third the cost.

This carpet is produced by a peculiar combination of strong, heavy paper, printed in ornamental colors, and coated with a tough, elastic, water proof enamel which receives the water, protects the colors and paper endures washing, and renders the carpet bright and beautiful in the extreme. Its advantages are as follows:—

Its cost renders it available to all classes; It is exceedingly smooth and glossy, and it accumulates next to no dust; It does not require to be taken up and cleaned like other carpet, and thus saves much labor and trouble; By re-coating with the Campillion Enamel occasionally as the case may require, (which costs but a trifle,) it will last indefinitely, even an age, and always appear new and bright; In its use no reliance whatever is placed upon the paper for wear, but exclusively upon the water-proof coating, the figured paper being used only to secure the colors. Paper has recently been used for a variety of purposes, even for trunks, roofs, flour bags and wearing apparel, but the first attempt, either in Europe or America, to convert it into carpet or floor covering, all concede it to be an entire success!

We have purchased the right for columbia county and can furnish the carpet to merchants at manufacturers prices.

THE YOUNG FOLKS.

The Three Crafts-Men.

"DEAR children," said a poor man to his four sons, "I have nothing to give you; you must go out into the wide world and try your luck. Begin by learning some craft or another, and see how you can get on." So the four brothers took their walking-sticks in their hands, and their little bundles on their shoulders, and after bidding their father good-bye, went all out at the gate together. When they had got on some way they came to four cross-ways, each leading to a different country. Then the eldest said, "Here we must part; but this day four years we will come back to this spot; and in the meantime each must try what he can do for himself."

So each brother went his way; and as the eldest was hastening on a man met him, and asked him where he was going, and what he wanted. "I am going to try my luck in the world, and should like to begin by learning some art or trade," answered he. "Then," said the man, "go with me, and I will teach you how to become the cunningest thief that ever was." "No," said the other, "that is not an honest calling, and what can one look to earn by it in the end but the gallows?" "Oh!" said the man, "you need not fear the gallows; for I will only teach you to steal what will be fair game; I meddle with nothing but what no one else can get or care anything about, and where no one can find you out." So the young man agreed to follow his trade, and he soon showed himself so clever, that nothing could escape him that he had once set his mind upon.

The second brother also met a man, who, when he found out what he was setting out upon, asked him what craft he meant to follow. "I do not know yet," said he. "Then come with me and be a star-gazer. It is a noble art, for nothing can be hidden from you, when once you understand the stars." The plan pleased him much, and he soon became such a skilful star-gazer, that when he had served out his time, and wanted to leave his master, he gave him a glass, and said, "With this you can see all that is passing in the sky and on the earth, and nothing can be hidden from you."

The third brother met a huntsman, who took him with him, and taught him so well all that belonged to hunting that he became very clever in the craft of the woods; and when he left his master he gave him a bow, and said, "Whatever you shoot at with this bow you will be sure to hit."

The youngest brother likewise met a man who asked him what he wished to do. "Would not you like," said he, "to be a tailor?" "Oh, no!" said the young man; "sitting cross-legged from morning to night, working backwards and forwards with a needle and goose, will never suit me." "Oh!" answered the man, "that is not my sort of tailoring; come with me, and you will learn quite another kind of craft from that." Not knowing what better to do, he came into the plan, and learnt tailoring from the beginning; and when he left his master, he gave him a needle, and said, "you can sew anything with this, be it as soft as an egg or as hard as steel; and the joint will be so fine that no seam will be seen."

After the space of four years, at the time agreed upon, the four brothers met at the four cross-roads; and having welcomed each other, set off towards their father's home, where they told him all that had happened to them, and how each had learned some craft."

Then, one day, as they were sitting before the house under a very high tree, the father said, "I should like to try what each of you can do in his way." So he looked and said to the second son, "At the top of this tree there is a chaffinch's nest; tell me how many eggs there are in it." The star-gazer took his glass, looked up, and said, "Five." "Now," said the father to the eldest son, "take away the eggs without letting the bird that is sitting upon them and hatching them know anything of what you are doing." So the cunning thief climbed up the tree, and brought away to his father the five eggs from under the bird; and it never saw or felt what he was doing, but kept sitting on at its ease. Then the father took the eggs and put one on each corner of the table, and the fifth in the middle; and said to the huntsman, "Cut all the eggs in two pieces at one shot." The huntsman took up his bow, and at one shot struck all the five eggs as his father wished. "Now comes your turn," said he to the young tailor; "sew the eggs and the young birds in them together again, so neatly that the shot shall have done them no harm." Then the tailor took his needle, and sewed the eggs as he was told; and when he had done, the thief was sent to take them back to the nest, and put them under the bird without her knowing it. Then she went on sitting, and hatched them; and in a few days they crawled out, and had only a little red streak across their necks, where the tailor had sewn them together.

"Well done, sons!" said the old man: "you have made good use of your time, and learnt something worth the knowing; but I am sure I do not know which ought to have the prize. Oh! that a time might soon come for you to turn your skill to some account!"

Not long after this there was a great bustle in the country; for the king's daughter had been carried off by a mighty dragon, and the king mourned over his loss day and night, and made it known that whoever brought her back to him should have her for a wife. Then the four brothers said to each other, "Here is a chance for us; let us try what we can do." And they agreed to see whether they could not set the princess free. "I will soon find out where she is, however," said the star-gazer, as he looked through his glass: and he soon cried out, "I see her afar off, sitting upon a rock in the sea; and I can spy the dragon close by, guarding her." Then he went to the king, and asked for a ship for himself and his brothers; and they sailed together over the sea, till they came to the right place. There they found the princess sitting, as the star-gazer had said, on the rock; and the dragon was lying asleep, with his head upon her lap. "I dare not shoot at him," said the huntsman, "for I should kill the beautiful young lady also." "Then I will try my skill," said the thief; and went and stole her away from under the dragon, so quietly and gently that the beast did not know it, but went on snooring.

Then away they hastened with her full of joy in their boat towards the ship; but soon came the dragon roaring behind them through the air; for he awoke and missed the princess. But when he got over the boat, and wanted to pounce upon them and carry off the princess, the huntsman took up his bow and shot him straight through the heart, so that he fell down dead. They were still not safe; for he was such a great beast that in his fall he overset the boat, and they had to swim in the open sea upon a few planks. So the tailor took his needle, and with a few large stitches put some of the planks together; and he sat down upon these, and sailed about and gathered up all the pieces of the boat; and then tacked them together so quickly that the boat was soon ready, and they then reached the ship and got home safe.

When they had brought home the princess to her father, there was great rejoicing; and he said to the four brothers, "One of you shall marry her, but you must settle among yourselves which it is to be." Then there arose a quarrel between them; and the star-gazer said, "If I had not found the princess out, all your skill would have been of no use; therefore she ought to be mine." "Your seeing her would have been of no use," said the thief, "if I had not taken her away from the dragon; therefore she ought to be mine." "No, she is mine," said the huntsman; "for if I had not killed the dragon, he would, after all, have torn you and the princess into pieces." "And if I had not sewn the boat together again," said the tailor, "you would all have been drowned; therefore she is mine." Then the king put in a word, and said, "Each of you is right; and as all cannot have the young lady, the best way is for neither of you to have her: for the truth is, there is somebody she likes a great deal better. But to make up for your loss, I will give each of you, as a reward for his skill, half a kingdom." So the brothers agreed that this plan would be much better than either quarrelling or marrying a lady who had no mind to have them. And the king then gave to each half a kingdom, as he had said; and they lived very happily the rest of their days, and took good care of their father; and somebody took better care of the young lady, than to let either the dragon or one of the Craftsmen have her again.

FARMER'S COLUMN.

GUARDING GRAPES AND PEACH TREES.—Dr. Trimble exhibited specimens of leaves blighted with mildew. Mr. Fuller said: "Sulphur is a good thing to apply. Bellows for the purpose are on sale at the seed-shops. Mix the sulphur with water and sprinkle the foliage. However, if grapes were planted on suitable soil, there would be less trouble. In some respects, the Clinton is superior. I have never known that variety to be diseased." Dr. Trimble also showed a box of borers. Just now, he remarked, they may easily be found in peach-orchards, and those persons who have been so injudicious as to neglect their trees until this late day had better go to work at once. A knife will easily remove the pest. He will be found hidden beneath little globules of exuding gum. Dr. Trimble cited cases recently observed, where the borer was destroyed by certain parasites, and he said he had never previously seen proof that man is thus aided in his usually weak warfare against this enemy. Mr. Bruen said; "I find great advantage in putting three or four teaspoonfulls of powdered sulphur around the large trees and more around the small ones. In fact, this application seems to prevent the attack of the borer entirely."

HOW I RAISE MY FALL PIGS.—When the pigs are two weeks old I put the sow in the pen or yard with the fattening hogs, allowing them, of course, to have all the swill and corn they can eat. Ordinarily, however, I boil potatoes and pumpkins with a liberal seasoning of meal, for the first two or three weeks of the breeding, which is better for the sow than corn. In the meantime have a hole in the pen large enough for the juveniles to go in and out, and then provide a side dish for them of sweet milk, with a little meal or shorts added to it. In case you do not have milk enough for the sow and pigs both, give it the latter by all means.

Previous to the setting in of cold weather, they should have access (both old and young) to a grass plot, but after hogs get fleshy and are full fed, they will eat but little grass.

By the way, it is surprising how small a grass plot will suffice for swine, after they have been fed upon it for a year or two, when it has once become fully enriched by feeding on it. The writer has kept six or seven full-sized hogs on a plot of a trifle over an eighth of an acre and for the most part the feed has been good.—Cor. Country Gentleman.

STABLE WINDOWS.—Diseases of the eye in horses may, in many cases, be traced to the wretched custom of confining animals in dark stables. Any one who has been for some time in a dark room, knows what the effect is of coming suddenly out into the bright sunlight. The horse is no less sensitive. Bring him suddenly out, and you notice that he stumbles against almost everything that is in his way, and steps with the utmost uncertainty. This blundering is not the fault of the poor beast, but of his owner. The eye must gradually become accustomed to the change. The effect of the common mode of treatment cannot fail eventually to be disastrous to the eyesight. The detention in dark stables must have a deleterious influence upon the optic nerve by weakening it. The retina feels it also. Objects are reflected upon a dull surface and they are not clearly discerned. The master wonders what is the matter; his horse used to be sure footed, but now he stumbles entirely too frequently for his credit in the market. He used to be very gentle and could be warranted as altogether safe, but now he shies so abominably that several times he has very nearly upset the carriage, and the ladies of the house are afraid of him. He is losing character and rapidly getting a bad name, when the poor brute is as deserving of confidence as ever. The animal would in fact be safer with absolute blindness than with imperfect vision, for it is constantly alarmed by objects which are seen indistinctly, whereas in the former case it trusts entirely to the bridle. Farmers will do well to make a note, and let their horses have light.—Journal of the Farm.

This INFALLIBLE REMEDY does not, like the poisonous irritating snuffs and strong caustic solutions with which the people have long been humbugged, simply palliate for a short time, or drive the disease to the Lungs as there is danger of doing in the use of such nostrums, but it produces perfect and permanent cures of the worst cases of chronic catarrh, as thousands can testify. "Cold in the Head" is cured with a few applications. Catarrhal Headache is relieved and cured as if by magic. It removes offensive breath, loss or impairment of the sense of taste, smell or hearing, watering or weak eyes, and impaired memory, when caused by the violence of catarrh, as they all frequently are. I offer in good faith a standing reward of $500 for a case of catarrh that I cannot cure.

LOOK, READ, AND LEARN,

THAT THE

Great Shoshonees Remedy!

OF THE CELEBRATED INDIAN

DR. LEWIS JOSHEPHUS,

of the distinguished Tribe of Shoshonees, Columbia Territory is now for sale in the Union.

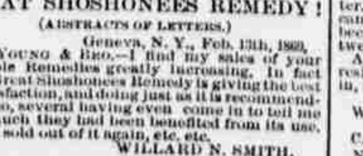

This all possessing great remedy, is warranted and in broad and emphatic language, we can safely say, may be relied upon to make a permanent cure of all diseases of the Throat, Lungs, Liver, Kidneys, Digestive Organs, etc., As well as scrofula, the various skin diseases, Humors, and all impurity of the blood, excepting the third stage of Consumption.

In Canada where this great remedy has been in use for a short time it has indeed effected some of the most marvelous cures ever recorded in the annals of historical medicine. Such being the case in addition to its former renown in Columbia Territory we defy humanity to dispute the fact that this Great Shoshonees Remedy is the remedy of remedies of the 19th Century, and the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity.

Price of the Remedy in large pints, $1,25.

Manufactured by Dr. Young & Bros., at Syracuse, N. Y.

For sale by all dealers in Medicine.

DRUGGISTS WRITE THUS OF THE

GREAT SHOSHONEES REMEDY!

(ABSTRACTS OF LETTERS.)

Geneva, N. Y., Feb. 13th, 1869.

DR. YOUNG & BRO.—I find my sales of your valuable Remedies greatly increasing. In fact your Great Shoshonees Remedy is giving the best of satisfaction, and doing just as it is recommended to do, several having even come in to tell me how much they had been benefited from its use. I have sold out of it again, etc. etc.

WILLARD N. SMITH.

Sherman, N. Y., March, 29th, 1869.

DR. YOUNG & BRO.—I started your Great Shoshonees Remedy by giving away one bottle to a confirmed Dyspeptic, the result has been ample. It gives universal satisfaction, much more than any other medicine we have had in the store for years. From what I have seen of the Shoshonees, I feel justified in recommending it. Send me six doz. more, it will sell in three months, etc.

BYRON FENNER.

Watertown, N. Y., March 15th, 1869.

DR. YOUNG & BRO.—Your Shoshonees Remedy is giving good satisfaction, and sells better than any other new medicine we have ever attempted to introduce, as we are nearly out of it, send us in haste etc.

B. LEWIS & CO.

127 N. Morgan St., Chicago, Ill. Feb. 18th, 1869.

DR. YOUNG & BRO.—I have sold over ten doz. of your Great Shoshonees Remedy already (and a great number of the Shoshonees Pills.) It gives universal satisfaction, I have not heard one to whom I have sold, but who speaks of it in the highest terms, and recommend it to others; and as I am nearly out of it, please send me half a gross more at once, etc., etc.

DON'T INTEND ASTONISHING

THE WORLD PUMPING OIL, BUT WATER.

KAY'S PUMPS,

USED AND ADMIRED BY EVERY ONE,

Especially the ladies, being truly the ladies' friend, working much lighter and easier than the old tree pump. They don't make such a slop and don't collect so much ice around the floor in the winter, the water not running so long after pumping. Having taken the first premium at every fair they have been exhibited; also recommended by all insurance Companies, on account of getting out more water in less time and with less labor, they throwing a barrel of water a minute. All we ask is a trial, and we are confident we can please you.

Again:—It is more simple, it having no lower box packed with tow and tallow, which is the greatest trouble in the tree pump. Another great advantage is, that when you get a new pump you are not compelled to drink for a whole year

PITCH PINE OR BLACK OAK WATER.

Our pump being made of wild cucumber wood, which is free from taste, also lasts longer in water. It has also many other advantages, which can only be found out by using them. They have been in use in the northern part of the State for twenty years; selling rapidly every where.

DRUGS & MEDICINES.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills,

For all the purposes of a Laxative Medicine.

Perhaps no one medicine is so universally required by everybody as a cathartic, nor was ever any before so universally adopted into use, in every country and among all classes, as this mild but efficient purgative Pill. The obvious reason is, that it is a more reliable and far more effectual remedy than any other. Those who have tried it, know that it cured them; those who have not, know that it cures their neighbors and friends, and all know that what it does once it does always—that it never fails through any fault or neglect of its composition. We have thousands upon thousands of certificates of their remarkable cures of the following complaints, but such cures are known in every neighborhood, and we need not publish them. Adapted to all ages and conditions in all climates; containing neither calomel or any deleterious drug, they may be taken with safety by anybody. Their sugar coating preserves them ever fresh and makes them pleasant to take, while being purely vegetable no harm can arise from their use in any quantity.

They operate by their powerful influence on the internal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate it into healthy action—remove the obstructions of the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, restoring their irregular action to health, and by correcting, wherever they exist, such derangements as are the first origin of disease.

Minute directions are given in the wrapper on the box, for the following complaints, which these Pills rapidly cure:—

For Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Listlessness, Languor and Loss of Appetite, they should be taken moderately to stimulate the stomach and restore its healthy tone and action.

For Liver Complaint and its various symptoms, Bilious Headache, Sick Headache, Jaundice or Green Sickness, Bilious Colic and Bilious Fevers, they should be judiciously taken for each case, to correct the diseased action or remove the obstructions which cause it.

For Dysentery or Diarrhœa, but one mild dose is generally required.

For Rheumatism, Gout, Gravel, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side, Back and Loins, they should be continuously taken, as required, to change the diseased action of the system. With such change those complaints disappear.

For Dropsy and Dropsical Swellings they should be taken in large and frequent doses to produce the effect of a drastic purge.

For Suppression a large dose should be taken as it produces the desired effect by sympathy.

As a Dinner Pill, take one or two Pills to promote digestion and relieve the stomach.

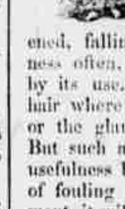

An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels into healthy action, restores the appetite, and invigorates the system. Hence it is often advantageous where no serious derangement exists. One who feels tolerably well, often finds that a dose of these Pills makes him feel decidedly better, from their cleansing and renovating effect on the digestive apparatus.

Ayer's

Hair Vigor,

For restoring Gray Hair to its natural Vitality and Color.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for preserving the hair. Faded or gray hair is soon restored to its original color with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

HAIR DRESSING,

A. H. IRVINE'S GREAT INDIAN

MEDICINE.

USED FOR MORE THAN FORTY YEARS IN GERMANY

is the most successful medicine yet discovered for the cure of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Kidney Disease, Ague Fever, and disease of Lungs, and is made entirely of

ROOTS AND HERBS.

One dose will convince any one, who gives it a fair trial. No family should be without it. It is astonishing what cures it has effected in Centre and Briarcreek townships, also Huntingdon, and where it has been used, since last spring. People who have been afflicted with the above diseases for the last fifteen years, when no Physician could reach their case are now cured and healthy by using the

GREAT INDIAN MEDICINE.

It has never failed to cure Ague, Fever and Derangement of the Stomach.

I hope all who are afflicted with the above diseases will apply for the great INDIAN MEDICINE which can be had at A. H. IRVINE'S Medicine Store in Light Street Columbia county Pa., or of his general agent . R. GORDNER.
